KIDNAPPING PLAN OF BANK ROBBERS SUCCESSFUL AGAIN

BANDITS SECURE LARGE SUM FROM CHICAGO INSTITUTION

Chicago. Jan. 30.—(AP)—The "kidnapping" system of bank robbery used for the third time within a month in Chicago, today netted its practitioners $35,000.

James Dillon, 26, teller of the Industrial State Bank of Chicago told police that he was held a prisoner in the bank all night while his four captors waited for the time lock in the bank vault to open at 7 a. m.

The quartet escaped after looting the vault ,leaving the cashier bound and gagged in the bank.

Dillon, 22 years old, said he was kidnapped while returning from church at noon yesterday by two men who forced him into an automobile, threatening to shoot him if he made an outcry. He said he was taken to a small garage and kept for six hours, then was forced to call his landlady and inform her that he would be out for the evening playing cards, after which he was taken to an apartment and finally to the bank which he was forced to open at 6:30 o'clock last night.

He was taken inside and a negro porter was seized, the robbers standing watch over the two until the time lock was released. The robbers bound their victims before leaving but Dillon crawled to a telephone and knocked the receiver from the hook which resulted in the police being notified.

It was the third such robbery here in the past month. Eight robbers by a similar ruse obtained more than $80,000 from the Ravenwoo National Bank. Last week men believed to be the same robbers obtained several thousand dollars after kidnapping the president of a small West Side bank.

ANOTHER MOVE TO DELAY HICKMAN CASE OVERRULED BY JUDGE

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES. Jan. 30.—(AP).—The right of the State to exercise further peremptory challenges in completing a jury in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman, kidnapper and slayer of Marian Parker, was upheld today by Judge J. J. Trabucco.

The prosecution and the defense both had accepted the jurors in the box last Friday, but District Attorney Asa Keyes at the resumption of the trial this morning requested and received permission to use the State's remaining challenges.

Questioning of talesmen then proceeded.

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(AP).—The jury in the sanity trial of William Edward Hickman was excused for five minutes at the opening of court today while Defense Attorney Jerome Walsh made a motion for the calling in of three scientific experts in the case.

After the State protested the motion as unnecessary, Judge J. J. Trabucco denied the motion, commenting it would only delay the trial.

Walsh then was the first one to take the witness stand, where he pleaded for his motion, declaring the defendant to be without funds, and that he himself was at personal expense handling the case.

District Attorney Asa Keyes inquired if a defense fund raised in Kansas City was not paying the expenses.

"That is absolutely false," Walsh said from the witness stand.

"I have already used $600 from a personal bank account, and have a $300 bill outstanding, none of which I expect to recover from the defendant or his family."

Walsh said in suggesting the calling of three experts from outside the State, he was "motivated by purely scientific motives." Judge Trabucco reiterated his denial of the motion and in the same sentence ordered the jury returned to the box.

The Navarro county grand jury had been in session twenty days since it was impanelled Monday, January 2, by Hawkins Scarborough, judge of the Thirteenth Judicial district court. SANTA FE OFFICIAL KILLED BY CONDUCTOR WHO TAKES OWN LIFE

TEMPLE, Jan. 30.—(AP).—K. S. Hull, about 55, division superintendent of the Santa Fe Railway, was shot and killed here today at a downtown corner. W. J. Henderson, about 50, former conductor of the same road, was seen to shoot himself just after Hull had fallen to the ground.

Henderson died soon after he had been taken to a hospital.

The shooting occurred in front of the Grace Presbyterian church while Hull was on his way from his home to his office. Hull was shot three times.

There was a heavy fog at the time of the shooting, and no witnesses saw the men before the shots were heard.

Several persons declared they saw Henderson point his pistol at himself.

Henderson was relieved from service with the Santa Fe several years ago when a charge of robbery with firearms was filed against him in connection with the holdup of Coleman Roddy, local department store owner. Henderson was acquitted of the charge, but was not restored to the service.

He recently had been employed as a switchman by another railway, but left the employ of that line about two weeks ago.

Hull was one of the most prominent division superintendents of the Gulf system. He began work with the Santa Fe as a worker on a bridge and building gang at Coperas Cove, soon becoming bridge and building foreman, later roadmaster. He was made division superintendent at Beaumont about 25 years ao. Twenty years ago he was transferred to the Temple division with headquarters here.

He had varied interests, being a director of the First National Bank here, and a member of the Rotary and other organizations.

Hull is survived by his widow and two sons, Cecil Hull of San Antonio, and K. S. Hull, Jr., of Temple. Henderson is survived by his widow, two sons, and two daughters. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN TAKE POISON AFTER TELLING OF PLAN

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A few minutes aftertaking poison in a hotel room, Mrs. Ila B. Joiner, 18, Decatur, Texas, and Lillie Show, 17, Hobart, Oklahoma, collapsed in a downtown cafe shortly before noon today. Both died a few minutes after reaching a hospital.

Brooding over a convict husband and a disappointed love affair were given as the reason for the suicide pact by Mrs. W. R. Thomason, sister of Mrs. Joiner. However, she said that she believed the two girls were joking when they told her that they were going to commit suicide.

After taking the poison the two young women walked into the cafe where Miss Snow sat down on a counter stool while Mrs. Joiner attempted to call her mother in Decatur. When she failed to get immediate connection she switched her call to a local undertaker asking that an ambulance be sent to the cafe at once, declaring that "it would have to hurry to beat the death angel."

Both scribbled notes on card board back of a writing pad. Mrs. Joiner's husband was recently convicted of murder an sentenced to 99 years from Vernon, Texas, Mrs. Thomason said.

Charged Juror Had Opinion of Guilt

GALVESTON, Jan. 30.—(AP). Attorneys for W. S. "Shilo" Scriveener, now facing a life sentence in the penitentiary upon conviction on a robbery with firearms charge in connection with the holdup of the First National Bank at Texas City, today filed an amended petition to their motion for a new trial, alleging that one of the jurors who found Servener guilty had expressed an opinion as to the defendant's guilt before the trial.

MARINE AIR ATTACK BRINGS DISASTER TO SANDINO'S FORCES

REPORTED MANY FOLLOWERS DESERT REBEL LEADER AFTER SIGNAL DEFEAT

Managua. Nicaragua, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The rebel General Augustino Sandino has apparently dropped from sight and his men scattered, according to advices reaching Marine headquarters here.

An airplane patrol returning from the Quilali region; first stronghold of Sandino to fall in the Marine drive against him, reported all quiet, with no signs of the rebels. From El Chipote, which was deserted by Sandino after a several aerial attack January 14, comes the same report. The Marine garrison there sent word that no activity of rebels was to be noted.

Nicaraguans arriving from Condega, department of Estell; said that the defeat suffered by Sandino January 14 caused a number of his followers to desert him. Small groups of his men are now traveling southward, anxious to get away from Nueva Segova, the scene of the fighting, it was asserted.

A Nicaraguan from Nueva Segovia said the Marine plan of seizing the larger villages thus depriving Sandino of food had resulted in the breaking up of the rebel forces.

In the meantime Marine replacements from Leon are pushing forward into the region and meeting no opposition. The work of the government road building gangs is making the march with pack trans comparatively easy. The columns will reach Ocotal in a few days and use the town as a base and regimental headquarters.

MAIN BUILDING OF VILLANOVA COLLEGE DESTROYED BY FIRE

VILLANOVA, Pa., Jan. 30. (AP)—Swept by flames, which for a time threatened destruction of the entire institution, college hall, the main building of the Villanova college group, was a mass of ruins today.

Hampered by lack of water and floundering in the deep snow that covered the campus, 24 fire companies battler the flames six hours last night. Hundreds of students and priests fought side by side with the firemen and some of them risked their lives in salvaging college records and labaratory apparatus. Many of their records and instruments were destroyed.

Father Daniel Driscoll, procurator, estimated the loss at $2,200,000, not including the personal belongings of 200 students whose dormitories were o nthe second and third floors of College Hall.

Villanova College is conducted by the Augustinian fathers. It has 1,000 students.

THE POOR LITTLE CITY BOY.

To the small boy in the crowded city—and to his small sister, too, for that matter — the time "when a feller needs a friend" is almost any time.

For in spite of everything cities can do to increase the number of playgrounds — and no city has enough of them—the poor little city child, that is the really young child, doesn't have half a chance when it comes to finding an open space were he can play in safety and comfort.

The streets? It is dinned into his ears day in and day out that he must keep out of the streets. They belong to the great god Traffic.

The alleys? Youthful pilots of delivery trucks make of them a speedway. It is essential, furthermore, that they be used by owners of rear-entrance garages. "You musn't play in the alleys!"

The sidewalks? They belong by right to the pedestrian, a right disputed daily by older children on speeding bicycles.

There remain the backyard and the front lawn—in sections where they exist.

So what domain is there where the King of Play may entertain his childish subjects? And why should it be wondered at if such items as this appear day after day in the newspapers:

A lost boy, about three or four years old, is being held by the police, who are trying to ascertain where he lives. It is believed he wandered away from home.

Wandered away, perhaps, at the back of childhood imaginings that surely in a city so big and so rich there must be a place to play.

KNOW TEXAS.

One hundred and fifty-three new enterprises in Texas were granted charters in a single month recently. This is a sign of the times.

The Democratic national convention goes to Houston. A great many persons in the North and East now realize for the first time that Texas has cities large enough to entertain a national convention.

Texas has the longest press news wire in the world. It reaches from Texarkana to El Paso and from Amarillo to Brownsville and is more than 2,400 miles long. It is operated by the Associated Press. The Corsicana Daily Sun has been using the Associated Press news service for over twenty years. It is the greatest news gathering association in the world.

Texas is adapted to wider range of wild animal life than any other state. The entire gulf area teems with wild ducks and wild geese and has been pronounced the best adapted section in the country for preserving bird life.

All wild birds, wild animals, and wild fowl are declared by law to be the property of the people of the state.

POSTAL RATE REDUCTION.

Several of the changes in postal rates in the bill submitted by Congressman Griest were specifically recommended in the recent report of the postmaster general, and it is assumed that others are the result of the department's inquiry into the cost of handling the several classes of mail matter and the performance of special services. This is now a permanent function of the department under an act of congress.

The proposed reductions are in the way of remedying overcharges made at the president's demand in 1925 to cover the increases in the pay of postal employes. In the last fiscal year the department reported an increase in revenue of 5.26 per cent; the operating deficit was reduced approximately nine million dollars, the operating ratio to earnings being slightly lower than it was in 1924, prior to the increase in the workers' pay.

The operating deficit of the postal service last year was $28,914,716.05, however, so that as a matter of business management the department cannot afford to figure on less revenue. But some of the reductions proposed are reckoned on as revenue producers, the higher rates having been set at a point which diverted mail patronage to other agencies, or discouraged it altogether.

The ideal postal service would balance its costs and revenues, but no calculation to that end can overlook the fact of record that in the last fiscal year 439,599,246 pieces of mail matter, weighing 132,976,838 pounds, were handled free, and that if ordinary rates had been collected on this service, the revenue would have been increased $14,501,208, cutting the deficit in half. The paying patrons of the postal service ought not to be expected to pay an excess on the cost of their service to pay for the service of dead-head mail, even if it be that of government departments.

ACCIDENT.

It is the habit of man to strive to create his own world to his own liking, a world in which his purposes run smooth and his hopes are soon realized. At every step, however, he stumbles on accidents, seemingly pointless and unnecessary, which thwart him, delay him and change his course. No life is clear of them and no plan or routine can avoid them. We may call them luck or dignify them as Providence, but rarely can we comprehend their cause or intent or find them anything but foreign to our sense of rightness and fitness.

There is small point to rebellion against them. If they are casual consequences of blind chance, we may no more question them than we may the wind or weather. If they are a part of a providential purpose, they involve so many consequences beyond our own vision that we can by no means judge them or weigh them in the scale of our own convenience. We can at best accept them as touchstones for the test of our endurance, our motives and our past accomplishment. They may either challenge us to override them or warn us against a too obstinate course.

They may serve us in yet another fashion. The life of easy routine and smooth sailing at times brings doubts whether we are more than puppets pulled by hidden strings or mere fragments on an irresistable tide. Accidents bring us face to face with the human heritage of free will and offer us chance to use it. They compel daily deccisions which we know to be important, and so keep alive our sense of responsibility. They make our path difficult, but they also teach us to travel it like men.

The contention that there are too many automobiles in this country will continue as long as there is any person without one.

When you look at what some women married you know that nothing less than love could have persuaded them to do it.

It is hard to tell whether a wild looking man is writing spring poetry or making out his income tax.

Most brides expect to be kept in all the little luxuries to which they haven't been accustomed.

Many nuisances formerly found only in rich homes are enjoyed by the working man now.

About the only thing in the world that can be taken at its face value is a smile.

The rest of the world prides itself on the belief that it is not quite as crazy as Russia.

It is easy enough to figure out a living wage for the other fellow to live on.

Some nations appear to be trying to get better to get worse.

He laughs best whose laugh lasts.

WAREHOUSEMEN TO FURNISH COMPLETE LIST OF ARTICLES

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Storage and warehousemen must furnish assessors lists of property they hold in storage with names and addresses of owners upon demand, the Court of Civil Appeals, Fifth District, held in an opinion today.

The opinion in a test case known as R. A. Vineyard, assessor vs. the Interstate Forwarding Company is one of ten filed here. The county alleged that property in storage in Dallas county is worth $20,000,000 and was escaping taxation because it was not listed. It was estimated the taxes on it would amount to from $10,000 to $225,000 annually.

The litigation was based upon a law passed by the 37th Legislature which provided that all warehousemen or persons providing for storage of household good or personal effects, should, upon demand of assessors of taxes, furnish to the assessors a complete list of the property stored, with the names and addresses of the owners.

The lower court ordered that the lists be furnished, and the Court of Appeals affirmed the ruling.

ATTORNEY GENERAL POLLARD RULES ON SUBSTITUTION PLAN

Austin, Texas, Jan. 27.—(AP).—Attorney General Claude Pollard ruled Friday that the State Railroad Commission cannot legally approve a proposed contract between the Cotton Belt and a motor bus line to substitute motor bus for passenger train service between Tyler and Lufkin, and warned that he would attack in court any such contract made.

The Commission, which has a hearing set for Alto, January 30 on the subject, can consider only the railroad's proposal to discontinue passenger trains, Mr. Pollard ruled in an opinion to Chairman Clarence E. Gilmore.

"Your jurisdiction," he said, "is to pass upon the simple question as to whether or not you will permit the railway to discontinue the operation of certain trains, but, in doing this, the law does not give you authority to go beyond and pass upon the legality of a contract between the railway company and a third party. I have quite serious doubt as to whether the contract is one which the railroad would be authorized to make, and for you to be called upon to assume the responsibility of determining its legality would be, in effect, substituting your judgment for that which ought to be determined by the courts."

RATLIFF DISPLAYS LITTLE CONCERN IN 99-YEAR VERDICT

Eastland, Texas, Jan. 28. (AP).—Marshall Ratliff, convicted yesterday by a jury in ninety first district court for robbery by firearms in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank of Cisco, today awaited without anxiety or apparent interest the next legal move in his behalf or against him.

After remarking that the 99 year term imposed upon him "Ain't no hill for a high steper like me," Ratliff was replaced in the Eastland county jail with his two companions Henry Helms and Robert Hill, both under indictment for the Cisco robbery.

It was not determined today if Ratliff's counsel will appeal the verdict. He still is to be tried on two charges of murder and another robbery by firearms charge, as a result of the death of G. E. Bedford, Cisco police chief and G. W. Carmichael, city policeman, both of whom were mortally wounded in the battle outside the bank. The robbery by firearms charge is the result of the holdup of Ellis Harris of Rising Star, at which time the three bandits took the automobile of Harris to make their escape.

Henry Helms is scheduled to be tried next and his trial is was indicated will be first on a murder charge. Hill's trial on a similar charge will follow.

"WE" The Epic of the Air

By Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh

The only story ever written by him.

(Copyright 1927 by Charles A. Lindbergh.)

CHAPTER XVIII.

Altogether, about 57 lives have been saved by parachutes in Government service. In every instance the jump took place because of fog, engine failure while flying over unfavorable country, collision of planes or other very definite emergencies. They say in the service that any flyer who jumps to save his life becomes a member of the "Caterpillar Club." This is because the parachute is made entirely of silk, and silk comes from caterpillars. All the 57 members of this club feel that their lives have been saved by the silkworm caterpillar!

There is a saying in the service about the parachute: "If you need it and haven't got it, you'll never need it again!" That just about sums up its value to aviation.

For two of the last days we were on tactical maneuvers with the other branches. Half of our number were assigned to defend the bombers and observation planes, while the other half attacked them. When we met, a lively combat ensued and the air would be full of pursuit planes in every conceivable position, each trying to get on the tail of an enemy plane without being first shot down itself.

At night in the barracks we would argue about which side won the war, but whenever one of us would demonstrate to the enemy that he had been shot down in battle, another would interpose the claim that he had put the attacking ship out of commission several minutes previous to the combat.

When graduation day arrived eighteen of us remained of the one hundred and four cadets who started the course at Brooks a year before. We were persented with our wings and commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Service Reserve Corps. That night we gave a farewell dinner in San Antonio and for the last time assembled together.

The next day we departed from Kelly.

I went by rail to St. Louis and took an O. X.-5 Standard out for a barn-storming trip in Illinois, Missouri and Iowa. The Post Office Department had just advertised a number of contract air mail routes for bid, one of which was between St. Louis and Chicago by way of Springfield, Ill. I decided to barnstorm around the country until it was determined which bidder would be assigned the contract. The Robertson Aircraft Corp. had placed a bid and offered me the position of chief pilot if they were successful in getting the contract.

After returning from Iowa I flew on several flying circus dates and made a few short cross-country flights to nearby cities.

On June second, while testing a commercial plane built at Lambert Field, I was forced to make a second emergency jump. I had flown the ship for a few minutes the previous week and on this occasion was testing if for various maneuvers. I had completed everything except tailspins, but when I attempted a right spin the plane refused even to start, so after a second attempt with the same result I gave that up and tried on to the left. The ship fell in easily and when I reversed the controls after a half turn, came out at once.

I then put it into a second left spin and held the controls in a spinning position during two complete turns. When I reversed them they had no apparent effect and using the engine was of no assistance. After trying for fifteen hundred feet to bring the ship out of the spin, I rolled over the right side of the cock-pit, and since I had jumped only about three hundred and fifty feet above the ground, I pulled the rip cord as soon as the stabilizer had passed.

The chute opened quickly, but while it was functioning I had fallen faster than the spinning ship. On its next revolution the plane was headed directly toward the chute. How close it had passed will never be known, for the risers leading up from my harness were twisted and swung me around as the ship passed. However, less than twenty-five feet intervened between the wing and my parachute.

I watched the plane crash in a grainfield and turned my attention to landing. A strong wind was drifting me towards a row of high tension poles and it was necessary to partially collapse the chute in order to hasten the descent and land before striking the wires.

I landed rather solidly in a potato patch and was dragged several feet and over a road before several men arrived and collapsed the chute. In addition to the strong win dand rough air, collapsing or "cutting" the chute so close to the ground had caused a very rapid descent, and my shoulder had been dislocated in landing.

In July I went out on two weeks active duty at Richards Field, Missouri. where I instructed on Jennies and D.H.-4's. In August I flew a Curtiss Oriole to Nevada, Missouri, to carry passengers during the Missouri National Guard encampment.

While at Nevada I received a proposition to fly in a circus in Colorado and, as there was no immediate prospect of starting work on the mail route, I accepted and when the encampment ene I flew the Oriole back to St. Louis and took a train west.

On arriving at the field, a few miles east of Denver, I discovered the plane I was to fly to be the same Lincoln Standard that Lynch and I had flown to Montana three years before. We did a little barnstorming along the eastern slope of the Rockies preliminary to the start of our flying circus.

We had contracted to exhibit before a number of fairs in Colorado and there was nothing barred in the exhibitions. We put on everything the committee was willing to pay for. At the smaller places we used only one plane, but at the more important exhibitions two were required.

We flew to the town where a fair was taking place one day before we were to exhibit. In that way everything was in readiness for the circus and the next morning there was no delay in our performance.

We started with wing-walking. The performer would climb out of the cockpit and walk along the entering edge of the wing to the outer bay strut, where he climbed up onto the top wing, and stood on his head as we passed the grandstand.

After finishing his stunts on the wing he would go to the landing gear and from there to the center section, where he sat while the plane looped and did Jenny Immelmans. From the center section he went to the tail and then, unless it was an unusual occasion, the wing-walking exhibition was over.

Chapter XIX.

After wing-walking came the breakaway. This was accomplished by fastening a cable to the landing gear. The performer went out to the wing-tip, fastened his harness to the loose end of the cable and to all apperances fell off the wing. No one on the ground could see the cable and a break-away always produced quite a sensation. Iron loops were clamped along the cable for use in climbing back up.

One of our feature attractions was the plane change. A rope ladder was attached to the wings of a plane and as one ship flew past the grandstand with the performer standing near the tip of the top wing, a second plane with the ladder attached, passed over the first, so that the ladder was in easy reach of the performer.

We usually made two fake attempts to effect the change and actually counted on the third for success. In this way the feat looked more difficult.

A parachute was attached to the opposite wing from the rope ladder. After the plane change was completed, the performer jumped off with the chute and the show was over.

In the evening we made a night fire-works flight. A series of candles, which when lighted emitted a trail of fire for several hundred feet behind the ship, was attached to each wing. After these candles had burned out. two magnesium flares started burning, lighting up the country below well enough to read a book very clearly. The display was set off by an electric battery in the cockpit.

When the plane reached an altitude of two or three thousand feet, a number of bombs were dropped to attract attention; then the switch was thrown into start the trails and colored lights, and the ship looped and shunted around the comet-like trail of fire.

Our greatest difficulty in night flying lay in lighting the landing fields from which to operate. Sometimes a number of cars were on the field and I landed and took off across the beams of their headlights. Under such conditions the ground was well illuminated and landing very simple.

On other occasions there would not be more than one car available and in one instance, on a dark night, I took off and landed by the light of a pocket flashlight which one of the men flashed constantly while I was in the air, to enable me to keep track of the landing field.

At one time in Colorado, we were booked for a fireworks exhibition to be given between darkness and midnight. We had been barnstorming during the day and on our way to this town we ran short of lubricating oil. By the time we had replenished our supply it was too late to get in before dark, and and I had never landed at the town before.

The owner of the plane, however, was sure that he could easily locate the landing field, even in darkness. He had been there many times and he knew that the field was "right next to the golf links."

We arrived over the town and after circling a few times, I throttled the motor and shouted:

"Where's the field?"

The reply was immediate and full of confidence.

"Right next to the golf links."

"Well, where are golf links?"

I don't know!"

Iwas up against another of the very amusing but equally serious incidents in barnstorming life. We were over strange territory on a dark night and with a rapidly diminishing fuel supply. It was imperative to land within a very few minutes. yet it was not possible to tell one field from another, and even the line fences were not visible.

I flew around until the outline of a strawstack appearde in the field below us. This field was outlined on one side by the lightit and a number of trees were diser color of the pasture adjoining cernible along the end. There was no telling whether it contained posts or ditches, but we had no alternative, and I landed beside the strawstack in the center.

Ahasty examination of the field showed it to be suitable for night flying and we hailed the first car passing for a ride into town. We had difficulty in locating our fireworks and, as the stores were all closed, still more time was lost before we obtained the bailwire, nails and board used in building the framework for the flares and candles and attaching it to the plane.

It was nearly midnight when the ship was at last ready for the display. Only one car remained on the field. We ran this machine out beside the strawstack and placed it in a position to show up on one side of the stack, in addition to throwing most of its light on the field. I was about to take-off when the headlights on the car became so dim that they were entirely useless. One of the men had a pocket flashlight and I took-off while he threw its beam on the strawstack.

It was eleven-forty when I left the ground and eleven-fifty-seven when the last flare had burned out. Our contract had been fulfilled with three minutes to spare.

I located the field by the flashing of the spotlight and levelled off and landed by its beam.

If the position of a light is known and the field is fairly level, it is not necessary to see the ground, but a plane can be stalled in and landed on the darkest night.

Pilots often bring their ships down when only the outline of a field is visible. For this reason it is imperative that no obstructions, such as farm machnery or live stock, be allowed to remain on a landing field at night.

Locating a strange flying field by its position in relation to an equally strange golf course is just one of the many instances in a pilot's life where comedy goes hand in hand with the most serious situations.

In one instance the story is told of a young pilot who had just learned to fly. He was taking the owner of his plane for a short flight and was demonstrating the various maneuvers he had learned. Finally, he put the machine into a spin, but after several turns discovered that he was not able to come out, and, after trying vainly in every way he could remember hearing of from his instructor, he leaned forward in the cockpit and tensely informed his passenger that they were about to crash.

Not realizing the seriousness of the situation, the owner replied:

"What the —— do you care, it's not your ship!"

It was usually the case that a person inexperienced in the art of flying became quite disturbed over some trivial thing that was of little importance. yet was perfectly at home and enjoying life tremendously at a time when the pilot was straining every effort to avoid disaster.

People would argue indefinitely, trying to persuade one of us to overload the plane past its danger point by carrying more than two passengers at a time from a small field, and it was of no consequence to them whether the plane cleared the nearest trees by a safe margin, or stalled over the uppermost branches by inches.

Explanations on our part were next to useless. If we refused to overload the ship, some one cited an example where a plane had carried several passengers at one time, and it made no difference how large an airport it was oper-what kind of a machine it was, or ating from.
passengers than we did indicated

The fact that it carried more that it was operated by a better pilot, and that our plane was not as safe to ride in.

We coul dstruggle along close the ground trying to get a little altitude and our passengers would have the time of their lives, waving at the people below, but let the motor start to miss, although the plane might be several thousand feet high, with several large fields in sight, and they would glance nervously back at the pilot, wishing that they had never considered taking a ride in an airplane.

CHAPTER XX.

The International Air Races were to be held, that year, at New York during the first part of October and since our fair contracts were over by the last of September, we decided to enter in the "On to New York" competition which was for civilian planes only, and was decided by points given for distance, speed, number of passengers carried, and the size of the engine used.

We had our motor overhauled at Denver and expected to fly from there to San Francisco for the start. Some of the repair parts for the engine were delayed and we were several days late in leaving Denver. Even then it was only through night work and leaving a number of things undone that we got away. A fifty-gallon center section gasoline tank had been installed which, in addition to the regular fuselage tank, gave us a capacity of one hundred and seven gallons.

We installed the engine one night and idled it for several hours before daybreak in order to work in the bearings; then we took off for San Francisco.

Our first stop was at Rawlins, Wyoming, where the highest field on the transcontinental air mail route is located. We refilled at Rawlins and made Evanston that night.

At Evanston we were starting the engine preparatory to taxing over and tying down for the night, when our carburetor caught fire. In the haste to get started we had neither put a fire screen on the intake nor a drain pipe down from the bowl.

The engine was covered with oil and the gasoline overflowing from the bowl carried the flames down around it. Soon the entire nose of the ship was ablaze and, although we shoveled earth over the motor, it appeared that the wings would soon catch fire. If the fabric began to burn, the ship was gone. I had just finished removing all loose equipment from the cockpit when a small hand extinguisher arrived, and with its aid the fire was soon put out.

All of the ignition wire insulation was burned off, but otherwise very little damage had been done.

We were delayed twenty-four hours rewiring the engine and cleaning out the dirt shoveled on in the attempt to put out the fire.

After Rawlins we stopped at Salt Lake City. and from there we flew over the Great Salt Lake Desert to Battle Mountain, Nevada, where we spent the night.

We took off from Battle Mountain with full gas tanks and, after following the passes until part of the fuel was consumed and the load correspondingly lightened, we passed over the Sierra Nevada range at 8,500 feet, and landed at Oakland, California. The same evening, without refilling, we flew over San Francisco Bay to Crissey Field.

The following day we took of from Crissey Field on the start of our race to New York. One of the rules of the contest was that each plane should carry a log with the starting point and number of passengers carried attested, to by two witnesses.

By the time we had made out the log and serviced our plane, it was afternoon, and darkness overtook us at Lovelocks, Nevada.

The next night was spent in Rawlins, Wyoming, after a stop at Salt Lake City for fuel.

We arrived in Rawlins with a valve blowing badly and were delayed a day in pulling the bank and grinding in another valve.

We were far behind our schedule, due to the late start from Denver, the delay at Evanston and again at Rawlins; but without further trouble we would still be able to reach New York on time. Another valve began blowing, however, soon after leaving Rawlins, and when we took-off from our next stop at Sidney, Nebraska, the motor had lost a numb(r of revolutions.

We flew to Lincoln from Sidney and after taking the short remaining time into consideration, we decided to abandon the race and start barnstorming.

We overhauled the engine at Lincoln and worked over towards St. Louis, where we arrived about the end of October.

At St. Louis we decided to tie up for the Winter and I began instructing students for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation on OX-5 Standards. The corporation had been awarded the air mail contract, but actual operation was not to start until the next Spring, so during the Winter months I spent my time instructing and test flying in their commercial service.

For the first time in my flying career I was to be in one place longer than a few months, so in November, 1925, I enlisted in the One Hundred and Tenth Observation Squadron of the Thirty-Fifth Division Missouri National Guard, and was commissioned a first lieutenant soon afterward.

The squadron was stationed on Lambert Field. Every Sunday was spent in flying. We had a number of J.N. training planes and one T.W.-3, which was the commanding officers personal ship.

The organization was composed mainly of pilots, who had flown during the war, but after the Armistice had gone back to civilian life. Their only method of keeping in training was by flying National Guard planes in their spare moments and attending camp two weeks each year.

Two nights and one day each week were devoted to military service by these officers and the enlisted men under them. Their pay was small and most of them lost more from neglect of their business than they received for their military services. The remuneration was hardly considered. However, they joined the Guards for two reasons: First. because of the opportunity it offered to keep in flying training; and second, because they considered it a patriotic duty to keep fit for immediate service in case of natonal emergency.

Appropriations were not large and often insufficient, but although at times it required part of the squadron's pay checks, the ships were kept in the air.

The National Guard squadrons offer an excellent opportunity for young men to get a start in aviation. Instruction is given each week, covering practically every branch of military aeronautics, and practical flying experience is obtained both in the air and on the ground under actual operating conditions.

Each year a few members of the squadron are sent to the army schools at San Antonio for flying training, and upon returning these men take their places in the commissioned personnel of the organization.

The inauguration of our Air Mail service was to take place on April 15, and as Spring drew near we were kept busy making preliminary preparations. The De Havilands were to be completed and tested; a ground organization built up; the terminal airports decided upon, and facilities for taking on and discharging the mail arranged for, in addition to the untold detail arrangements which go to make up the organization of a successful airline.

Contract air mail routes are located by the Post Office Department and are so arranged that the mail service can be improved by use of air transportation over other means of communication.

The route is opened for bids and the contract awarded to the lowest bidder who is responsible and in a position successfully to carry on operations.

The contractor can bid any amount up to three dollars per pound of mail and is paid by the pound for the actual amount carried over his route.

Our route, between St. Louis and Chicago was operated on a schedule which saved one business day over train service to New York. A letter mailed in St. Louis before three-thirty p. m. was rushed to Lambert Field by a fast mail truck, transferred to the plane which was waiting with engine turning over, landed on the Air Mail Field at Maywood, Illinois, at seven-fifteen, transferred to one of the Chicago-New York overnight planes, retransferred at Cleveland, Ohio. and was in the Post Office in New York in time for the first morning delivery.

An answer could be mailed at New York in the evening and be delivered in St. Louis before noon on the following day. If sent through the ordinary mail it would not arrive until one day later.

The advantages of air transportation are most apparent over long distances. The air mail flies from New York to San Francisco in thirty-six hours, whereas a train requires nearly four days to make the same trip.

The United States, through the efforts of the Post Office and the Department of Commerce. is being covered with a network of air mail routes, and it is only a matter of the public using this service before nearly every city in the country will be served by airlines.

DEMPSEY NOT MEET TUNNEY AGAIN FOR EYES

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—(AP).— Denying Chicago reports that Jack Dempsey had announced his retirement from the ring on account of eye trouble, Tex Rickard, New York boxing promoter, today told the Associated Press "It's an old story. "There's nothing to it," he declared.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The Herald and Examiner in a copyrighted article today said that Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, has been forbidden by his physician ever to enter the ring again. The newspaper said the information was contained in a message received from Miami, Fla., Dempsey having notified Tex Rickard, the promoter, who is there, of his decision.

The Dempsey telegram informed Rickard that Dempsey's eyes had gone back on him and that doctor's orders prohibited further fighting, the account added.

The Herald and Examiner said it had been unable to corroborate the facts from Dempsey, efforts to locate him in California proving unavailing.

The newspaper's Miami Beach informant understood that as a result of the former champion's decision Rickard has finally abandoned hope of rematching Dempsey with Gene Tunney, titleholder, and is looking around for another challenger.

WOOD ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION COUNTY ATTORNEY

TO THE PEOPLE OF NAVARRO COUNTY:

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for re-election to the office of County Attorney of Navarro County.

During the present session of the Grand Jury, and while they were making an investigation of my office, I have refrained from making any statement, but feel it is incumbent upon me now to make a statement concerning charges found by the Grand Jury.

Two years ago I was elected County Attorney after a bitter political fight. By my election the old political and professional COURT HOUSE RING was severely crippled and they have sought by all the means within their power to harrass and give me trouble and to ultimately have me removed from office, thus to perpetuate their rule and, in part, increase their income.

After twenty days investigation of my office, alone, by the Grand Jury, I have been indicted in six cases; three felonies and three misdemeanor cases.

All I ask is a speedy trial, because I know that I am not guilty of the charges made.

Three of the cases grew out of a certain beer transaction, which cases were passed upon by a previous Grand Jury and no indictments returned. One of the cases grew out of my failure to submit a negro case to the Grand Jury relating to the possession of a pint of liquor and which from my understanding no conviction could have been secured. In the other two cases I am charged with extortion and theft by bailee, which grew out of the same transaction. Both of these charges grow out of the same case and relate to a single transaction involving thirty-five dollars. The payment to me of said thirty-five dollars by the mother of the man is made the basis of the extortion charge and the retention thereof by me is made the basis of the theft by bailee charge. This item of thirty-five dollars was paid to and accepted by me in good faith to cover the costs of the sheriff and the district clerk in the case. This occurred about October 1927 and which amount I had not, up to date, paid over to the sheriff and clerk but the clerk knew I had the money for that purpose.

I have worked hard and have been faithful to the trust that the good people of Navarro county gave me two years ago. I have tried to vigorously prosecute all law violations and I have tried 109 cases in the District Court during the one year which I held the office and have secured one hundred and five convictions, many of which were for the violation of the liquor laws. I know that this record at least compares favorably with the two preceding administrations, as the records will disclose to any one who cares to make an investigation.

There had been some criticism of law enforcement here, and as the result, in December 1927, I requested the Governor to send Rangers here to look over the situation. Unfortunately this information was given out to the newspapers at Austin, Texas before the Rangers reached Corsicana. I gave out no information about the coming of the Rangers until it was made public through the press. The Rangers remained here long enough to investigate the true situation in detail and they reported it was a "political boil." They also reported that after careful investigation they believed the law was reasonably well enforced; in fact that there were no more violations of the law in Navarro county than in any other county of like size and population in Texas.

I would ask my friends and the public to reserve any opinion and judgment in this matter until such time as I can get the opportunity to be exonerated of the charges by a jury of my peers. I feel confident that not only my friends but many others are cognizant of the true situation that exists in Corsicana still. The COURT HOUSE RING, dominated by the BLUE FRONT, recently transferred from Beaton to 10th street, has not been broken and the conditions which brought about the malignant attack upon me is still operating in full force, and has chosen as a time for explosion, a period just preceding a primary election.

My conscience is clear of any wrong doing in any of the matters charged. I have conducted the affairs of the office to the best of my ability and according to the dictates of my own conscience, though under the hostile scrutiny of enemies, and I have no apologies to make to any one and I believe my friends will soon be able to find this to be a fact.

The administration of the County Attorneys' office has not been controlled or dominated by the former COURT HOUSE RING, nor the BLUE CORNER POLITICIANS. I hope to defeat them again in the approaching primary election, as I am sure that the cases filed against me will be defeated in the Court House.

I ask the vote and influence of every citizen of Navarro county who believes in honesty and fair play.

REBEL STRONGHOLD TAKEN WITH LITTLE OPPOSITION FRIDAY

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 27.—(AP).—American Marines today were on the peak of El Chipote and the last traces of the rebel general, Sandino's occupation of this, his last known stronghold(has been destroyed.

From the crest of El Chipote, a mountain 5,000 feet high, Major Archibald Young, who led the Marines in their advance, signalled all was well with them.

Sandino's followers were understood to have been scattered when the Marines gained another objective in their campaign to drive the rebels into isolated districts, cut off from food and ammunition.

Sandino, who boasted that he would never be driven from El Chipote, was believed to have been wounded in the aerial bombardment which signalized the beginning of the attack on the mountain almost two weeks ago. Aviators who made the attack said 40 rebels were killed in the bombardment.

Vultures Only Living Things.

Vultures, indicating that the rebels had fled in haste leaving their dead unburied, were the only signs of life seen by Marines who flew over the district later.

All that has been heard of Sandino since then was a report, never confirmed, that he was slain and later and more definite advices that he was wounded.

Three days ago, Major Young advised headquarters that he had established his command of 400 men on the slopes of the heavily timbered mountain. He met with sporadic resistance from Sandino followers, but that was brushed aside as the Marines moved cautiously toward the summit.

Fortifications Destroyed.

Fortifications and trenches which Sandino had built to make a natural stronghold the more impregnable, were destroyed, deserted rebel camps wiped out and the crest gained.

The landing of supplies for the Marines has struck a snag at the port of Corinto.

Stevedores were on strike after a committee appointed to investigate their grievances reported that none existed. The belief prevails in official quarters that the dock workers are taking advantage of the present political situation in the interior.

The steamer Salvador is now in port with a cargo to be unloaded. The United States ship Salinas is also there with supplies for the Marines.

Will Permit No Disorders.

Naval authorities say that the railway from Corinto to the interior over which Marine supplies move will be kept open and they will permit no disorder at the port.

A bitter battle is being fought by the Liberal and Conservative press of Managua in regard to the political situation.

A suggestion that former President Chamorro should be deported as a disturbing element was made by the Liberal newspapers. The Conservative papers' reply was that General Jose Moncada, former Liberal commander-in-chief, should be deported. They said he was secretly aiding Sandino and that a son of his was a captain in the Sandino forces.

General Moncada denied that his son, Aquiles Moncada , held such a post. His son, fearing assassination, was in hiding, he asserted.

TIME FOR PAYMENT POLL TAXES GROWS SHORTER HOURLY

Pay your poll tax. The time for the securing of the poll tax receipts or exemptions will expire Tuesday night at midnight and it will be impossible to secure the same after that time. One of the main reasons for the urging of the payment of the poll taxes this year is that this is election year with the election of officers from constable to president.

The poll tax writers in the county tax collector's office were beseiged Monday morning by long lines seeking the receipts, but the automobile booth was not so crowded.

Other taxes, including automobile tax, can be paid after January 31, Tuesday, but a delinquent fee will be added as a penalty, but no poll taxes can be issued.

It is expected that several thousand poll taxes will be issued Monday and Tuesday and a grand rush for all taxes Tuesday, the last day.

The tax collector's office will be open until midnight Tuesday night.

ADDED POWERS WOULD MAKE PAN-AMERICAN UNION COURT TO SETTLE VARIOUS DISPUTES

Havana, Jan. 27. (AP).—Whether the Pan-American Union should continue its present non-political function or should assume the added role of conciliator was before the Pan-American conference today.

Detailed articles of incorporation as projected by the Union itself and widely varying amendments of member nations were up for discussion by the commission charged with preparing an organic basis for reorganization of the union.

The amendments included those proposing in one form or another that the union become a conciliator. These came from delegations of Cuba, Salvador and Colombia. The Colombian project envisaged the establishment of a court, somewhat similar to that of the Hague, for the settlement of disputes in this hemisphere.

Another proposal was that advanced by Argentina that the union concentrate its efforts on a plan of action aimed at the removal of all discriminatory and quarantine barriers to trade between the Americas.

A Mexican proposal for reorganization of the Union implied criticism of the present organization. The chief Mexican suggestion is alphabetical rotation of the chairmanship of the governing board, a post traditionally held by the Secretary of State of the United States. The same principle of rotation would apply to the office of Director-General, now held by a permanent official, Dr. Leo. S. Rowe, a United States delegate to the Conference.

Efforts of the Conference to reach an accord on frontier police and pursuit of criminals across international boundaries failed when it was voted to leave all questions of pursuit up to officials of the adjoining states. This vote in the commission on public international law followed statements by Charles Evans Hughes, Chief of the United States delegation, and Gonzales Roa, of Mexico, as to the successful cooperation between the United States and Mexico on the policing of the international border. They both opposed taking the matter out of the hands of the local authorities and being governed by the conference's conclusions.

Mr. Hughes also announced that the United States would refuse to recognize the right of asylum as a principle of international law. It was understood the United States would not become a party to any convention defining the right of asylum.

Labor Says Hands-off In South America

Miami, Fla., Jan. 27.—(AP).—An unequivocal hands-off policy is the only course the United States can pursue in Latin America to insure perfect cordial relations with those countries in the belief of the American Federation of Labor.

This sentiment was outlined in a communication mailed Wednesday night to charles Evans Hughes, chairman of the United States delegation at the Pan-American Congress in Havana.

COMMANDER OF GIANT LINER LEVIATHAN WILL SPEND HIS REMAINING DAYS IN SOUTH

Washington, Jan. 27. (AP). — Herbert Hartley, who spent 35 years of the prime of his life on ships, is "going down south in the land of cotton and forget all about the sea."

Hartley, here with his wife to arrange details incident to his retirement as commander of the giant liner Leviathan, said today he would make his home in Alabama, although he arranged to enter the cotton business at Atlanta as representative of a New England concern.

"I'm through with the sea forever," he declared with a smile that betrayed his desire to get back to the normal life of a landlubber which has has not known since he was 18.

"Thirty-five years on the ocean is enough for any man. I've just grown tired of following it. I was born in New York, but I turned southerner when I married Mrs. Hartley three years ago.' Her home is in Opelika, Ala., and that is going to be my home from now on."

Mrs. Hartley is "tickled to death" over the decision of her husband, who said he had been thinking about resigning for about eight months.

Asked to detail the high lights of his sea career, the former commodore of the United States lines replied:

"Well, I've crossed the sea 860 times and I've carried 200,000 passengers across in my five years as master of the Leviathan. When I took her out on her trial trip, I put over 687 miles in exactly 25 hours, or an average of 27.4 knots. That's the fastest she's ever gone. The first ship I ever took across the Atlantic was a sailing vesel, and it took me 45 days to make the trip!"

LINDBERGH FIGHTS FOG ON FLIGHT FROM COLOMBIA TO VENEZUELAN CITY SUNDAY

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 30.—(AP).—Venezuela today honored an intrepid airman, who after a flight over perilous mountains lost his way in a fog, but despite these obstacles reached his goal.

Arriving at Maracay, 50 miles west of here ten hours after he started from Bobota, Columbia, Charles A. Lindbergh's first act was to apologize to President Gomez for having kept him waiting at the flying field. An anxious crowd had awaited his arrival for two hours. His flight covered 650 miles airline.

Lindbergh told the president that after reaching Ortiz, about 110 miles south of Caracas, he ran into a fog. He then lost his way. It was growing late when he found the coast at Higuerote, 100 miles east of here and 150 miles from his destination. Once he had found the way he sped toward Caracas, passing over the city at 5:15 p. m. The Spirit of St. Louis then followed the concrete road from the capital to the field.

Lindbergh landed at 6 p. m., and again as in the first flight of his goodwill tour—from Washington to Mexico City, when he was lost in a fog after leaving Tampico—he had proved himself to be an aerial pathfinder and conquered obstacles interposed by nature.

When the aviator apologized to the president for his lateness, the president replied that his only wish was for Lindbergh to arrive safely in order that he might welcome him. President Gomez then embraced the airman and gave him the decoration of the Order of the Liberator. The President invited Lindbergh to ride with him in his car from Maracay to Caracas.

Mexico City Greets French Fliers Warmly

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30.—(AP).—Mexico City, which was the first port of call for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh on his goodwill tour, today entertained two French fliers who plan to make a nonstop flight from here to New Orleans, en route to New York.

Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix flew here from Guatemala City, Guatemala, yesterday, covering the 670 miles in 7 hours and 26 minutes. On arival at Valbeuna field they were greeted by President Calles and his staff, Jean Baptiste Perier, French minister, representatives of various South American countries and Dwright W. Morrow, American Ambassador. A crowd of 10,000 persons acclaimed them.

Still attired in their flying togs they were driven into the city through a shower of confetti, flowers and colored tape.

Frequently the Frenchmen caught the flowers and tossed them back to the crowd. At the French legation they kissed a number of babies handed up to them by proud mothers.

They said they had encountered some bad weather, with fog, clouds and a little rain.

PRESIDENT ASKS $400,000 TO FIGHT PINK BOLL WORM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP). Supplemental appropriation of $400,000 to fight the pink cotton boll worm in Texas was asked of Congress today by President Coolidge.

The President, in his communication to the House recommended that $100,000 of the approprtaioon be made immediately available to meet an emergency caused by new outbreaks of the pest. The money would be supplied in the Agricultural Department appropriation bill. Accompanying the President's communication was a letter by Director of the Budget Lord which said the outbreaks of the cotton pest had occurred in the western part of the State "involving three and possibly five counties." He added that "the seriousness of the present outbreak is that it is in the beginning of continuous cotton cultivation and unless control measures are promptly undertaken presents a great menace not only to the cotton areas of Texas but to the entire cotton belt.

WOMAN CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF TEXAS ARDENT DRY

Dallas, Texas. Jan. 27. (AP)—Prediction that the nomination of Gov. Al Smith of New York as the democratic presidential nominee will mean defeat of the party was made by Mrs. Edith Wilmans of Dallas, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, She announced her own stand strongly in favor of prohibition and said:

"We must have a dry candidate for president as well as for vice president." She discussed reports that efforts would be made to nominate Governor Dan Moody for president or vice president and expressed a wish that he would be a candidate again for governor against her. In part she said:

"The people of Texas must be careful and consider well the national situation, for regardless of how strong a prohibitionist we may have in the vice presidents office. tt will make not the least difference in a vote for or against a repeal of the prohibition amendment.

"Mr. Moody, as governor of Texas. has 100 percent more power to assist in the enforcement of the prohibition laws, both state and federal, and compel legislation relating to their enforcement, than he would have as vice president, and yet he has made little headway in remedying the situation in Texas, with every power at his call.

Not Taking Issue.

"I am not at this time taking issue with any candidate on their prohibition record. but we must not let the entering wedge in, which may cause such confusion at the last moment which will result in the nomination of an anti prohibition candidate for the presidency, for Al Smith, or any other wet president, would undo the work of the moral forces of the United States for the last fifty years, in passing the prohibition amendment, for as the president would have the power to vote any act calling for a repeal of our prohibition amendment, so a president would have a vast influence on legislation to repeal our present prohibition laws; or to make our enforcement laws stronger. This is why I am making this appeal to the people to really and seriously study the situation from every standpoint, and be prepared to vote against any delegate who favors a coalition of the wet and dry forces to elect Smith as the standard bearer.

"If we nominate Al Smith as the choice of the democratic party, for there are many states who, after voting against any wet candidate will, if a wet is nominated, either not vote, or bolt the democratic party.

"If the nomination of Mr. Moody for Vice President will make our chances stronger to win a Democratic victory for president, then by all means let us lend every effort to his nomination. But let us not forget that the vice president of the United States can have very little to do with the support or repeal of the prohibition amendment.

"As President of the Senate, he could not vote on any measure except in the case of a tie, and in a vote to repeal the Volstead act, or any other amendment to the constitution, or to modify same, it will take a two-thirds majority vote of both houses to re-submit the question to the legislature of the several state, or to call a convention for the purpose of a repeal by the people. Hence, Mr. Moody as Vice President, would have absolutely no voice in the question, one way or another.

"I would advise the public of Texas to not let the candidacy of Mr. Moody for nomination as Vice President, cloud the issue as to our selection of a Presidential nominee, and I concur in all that has been said in the press against nominating a wet candidate for president—but I do not think the movement now on foot by some of the Moody supporters to back Moody for the Presidency, is a wise one. I understand that in a week or so there will be a strong booster club, urging Mr. Moody as the standard bearer for the Democratic Party. I doubt if the men backing this movement have any serious idea of securing the nomination of Moody for President, but it may help to secure his nomination for Vice President.

Wants Moody In Race.

"I hope Mr. Moody announces as a candidate to succeed himself, and continues in the race to the finish. I say this advisedly, for while I think Mr. Moody would make a creditable showing as Vice President, yet I believe in a fair showing, which because of the factionalism of the last campaign no candidate had as to qualifications for office, I will be able to show to the people of Texas that of the two of us, I am better qualified, both from the standpoint of experience and age, as well as ability, to fill the office he now holds."

Mrs. Wilmans said that in her platform in the present race she would place again the same prohibition plank she included in her policies two years ago. She declared conditions are deplorable and there must be some relief from disregard of statutory and constitutional law by "some of our so called best citizens as well as the lower classes." She said her prohibition plank was:

"No matter what newspaper one picks up, he will be sure to find therein many instances of the violation of our prohibition laws. I am heartily in favor of the strict enforcement of our prohibition law and all other laws and for legislation as will cause a more strict observance of such laws, and I pledge myself as a candidate, that when elected governor, I will lend every encouragement and cooperation to our enforcement officers, looking to a strict enforcement of both state and federal laws relating to the liquor traffic."

FERGUSON FAVORS JUDGE WARDLOW AS TEXAS' GOVERNOR

San Angelo, Texas, Jan. 27. — (AP).—Former Governor James E. Ferguson favors Judge L. J. Wardlow of Sonora and Fort Worth for governor of Texas and Senator James Reed of Missouri, or Al Smith, Governor of New York, for the presidential nomination by the Democratic party, he said here today in a discussion of politics.

Former Governor Ferguson is attending the third annual West Texas PePtroleum convention, and took a lease from the Archer county commisisoners' court on 17,500 acres of land in the center of the Shannon ranch in Crockett county, which J. M. Shannon, millionaire cattleman and banker, leased to the Humble Oil Company several years ago.

For County Judge.

I take this method of announcing to the voters of Navarro county that I am a candidate for the office of county judge.

I am sure you are not interested in my past accomplishments and I am not going to give you a biography of my life; suffice to say that my father, grandfather and two uncles, Captain Clint Fouty and M. Fouty, came to the Republic of Texas in 1844, and settled in what is now Navarro county.

I have resided in Navarro county all my life, my coming in and going out has been observed by every one, and I have tried to live and conduct myself so as to merit the confidence and esteem of all good men and women.

I am asking you for an office that means a great deal to the voters and tax payers of the county, as it has to do largely with the handling of the people's money and I elieve, if given the opportunity, I can make you an acceptable county judge, and if so favored, I promise you the best service I am capable of rendering.

Thanking you for your support and influence in the coming campaign, I am, Sincerely,

CLAY NASH

GOVERNORS OF FIVE SOUTHERN STATES IN FAVOR COTTON MEET

Austin, Tex., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Governors of five Southern States have promised co-operation and support to Governor Moody's suggestion that a South-wide conference be called to form a militant organization against any increase in cotton acreage and to dissipate "propaganda" that an increase for next year is under way, the executive office said today.

Most of the executives suggested that meeting be held between about February 7 and 17.

Mr. Moody will recommend that each Governor join in a general call for some time in February at a "central point" and that from 15 to 30 representative farmers, bankers and cotton factors from each state be made delegates.

Atlanta, Georgia, already is bidding for the conference, through Governor Hardman of Georgia and Governor Johnston of Oklahoma believes some point in his state would suffice.

Other executives who have endorsed the plan are Bib Graves, Alabama; O. H. Simpson, Louisiana; Theodore Bilbo, Mississippi; Governor Martineau, Arkansas, being out of the state has not been heard from.

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP).—Pilgrimages of war mothers and widows to the American cemeteries in France was [illegible] the House Military Committee today as being a [illegible] plan [illegible] the United States that [illegible] battleships and armies.

Friends of a bill by Representative Butler, Republican, Pennsylvania, to have the Government finance the vists, urged that the pilgrimages be undertaken by groups of 500 women each, traveling under the supervision of the Red Cross on government-owned or chartered vessels. The committee approved the measure.

The bill would provide appropriations of $3,000,000 for first class transportation of possibly six thousand or 8,000 mothers and widows of American soldiers, sailors and marines.

Mrs. Mathilda Burling, of Richmond Hill, N. Y., vice president of the Gold Star Association of America, thanked the committee and the author of the bill on behalf of her organization.

Farmer Boasts Of Making Fair Return

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP).—On the eve of another hearing on farm relief legislation, the Senate agricultural committe was surprised to hear a farmer boast today that he made a 6 per cent return on his property.

Dr. Harrison Howe, editor of a magazine for the American Chemical Society, in testifying before the committee on Muscle Shoals legislation, mentioned that he also was a farmer.

"You are a shade tree farmer, aren't you?" questioned Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas. "You don't live on your farm?"

"I live in Washington," he replied, "but I run a farm of 320 acres in Wayne county, Indiana, in co-operation with another making a profit of 6 per cent on a fair valuation of my property."

"I would like to know your tenant," declared Senator Caraway, amid laughter.

To Extend Commission's Life.

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP).—Extension of the life of the Radio Commission for another year was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, sponsor of the radio legislation last session.

M'CAMEY OIL FIRE KILLS ONE, INJURES FIVE LATE FRIDAY

McCamey, Texas, Jan. 28.—(AP).—Subsiding within a few hours after it flared up, one of the most spectacular fires in the history of Texas' oil fields had passed today, leaving a record of one dead, five slightly injured, and loss estimated at approximately $100,000.

Starting with a terrific explosion heard for miles when a spark presumably ignited gas in a 3,000 barrel tank which Fred Hendricks, chemist, was inspecting, fire yesterday destroyed the contents of twelve tanks, filled for the most part with gasoline, on the property of the Humble Oil Company here and threatened for a time to sweep the entire refinery.

The broad extent of the fire over which a towering column of smoke visible for great distances hung for hours, coupled with the force of the explosion and the fact that the day shift had not left the scene when the conflagration started, lent color to early reports that from thirteen to 60 lives had been lost and that huge damage had been suffered.

Screaming women and children, fearful that members of their families had been caught in the fire area, gathered within a few minutes, and were restrained from approaching the burning refinery by fire fighting forces. Happy reunions soon followed a check of employes by Humble officials, however, which revealed that only Hendricks had been killed.

His body was seen hurtling through the air as the explosion sounded, and hours afterward had not been recovered. Five McCamey residents, including R. X. Cook, superintendent of the refinery, sustained slight injuries in fighting the flames, but were reported as recovering.

BUILDING SEATING 25,000 TO BE READY WITHIN 90 DAYS

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP).—The formal call for the National Democratic Convention, to be held at Houston, Texas, on June 26, went out today from Democratic headquarters here.

The call shows there will be 1,100 votes in the convention, the only change from four years ago being the addition of two from the Virgin Islands. The convention will decide whether these two delegates shall be seated. The territories and other possessions will have six votes each.

The plan calls for two delegate votes for each member of Congress from the various states. Those delegates representing senators will be delegates at large, and Chairman Shaver suggested that eight be elected at large, with half a vote each, and that women should constitute one half of these delegates. The plan calls for the usual selection of alternate delegates.

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—The immense made to order auditorium which will house the Democratic National convention at Houston, Texas, next June will be especially designed to take a full advantage of the cool Gulf breezes sweeping in from the Gulf of Mexico.

A permanent fireproof roof, insulated against heat, and a mechanical ventilation system, will guarantee the comfort of the delegates, Jesse H. Jones, of Houston, director of finance of the Democratic National Committee, said today. All sides of the great hall will be left open to admit the breezes.

Several city blocks are to be razed and cleared for the audititrium, which will be of stadium type, with sloping floors surrounded by thousands of seats from which a clear view of the platform will be afforded from all parts of the hall. Its capacity will be 25,000 persons.

It will include a branch postoffice, four dining rooms and special accommodations for officers of the National Committee and the press. Special consideration has been given facilities for radio broadcasting and the making of motion pictures.

Accommodations for the press on the speakers' platform and in offices nearby have been carefully planned. All the press services will have private and independent facilities for their work and a number of private offices will be provided for the larger newspapers.

Houston plans to build the auditorium in 90 days. G. A. Dowdy, Houston's city architect, will be in charge of construction.

Houston, Jan. 27.—(AP)—More than 300 applications for position as page boys, ushers, telephone operators, stenograhers, campaign workers, members of the reception committee and any number and kind of jobs have into A. D. Simpson, head of the Chamber of Commerce Convention and Tourists Bureau since Houston was selected as the National Democratic Convention meeting place. Applications for stenographic positions lead with about 100. Thirty page boys and 32 telephone operators are seeking jobs.

One man came in person seeking a job on the reception committee. He came from Georgia and was willing to work providing the city would pay him a good salary.

Another wanted a job as campaign worker.

"I'm willing to let you pick the candidate—any candidate — and I'll take the job of boosting him for president," he said.

Two auditing firms would audit the books of the convention.

People from all parts of the country are coming here looking for some kind of work in connection with the convention, Mr. Simpson said. He sees an average of fifty persons daily in regard to convention matters—mostly job hunters.

PENITENTIARY SHOP BURNED FRIDAY WITH $20,000 DAMAGE

Huntsville, Texas, Jan. 27.—(AP.)—Official investigation was under way here today to determine the origin of a fire which last night destroyed the wagon factory in the walls of the State penitentiary, with a loss estimated at from $10,000 to $20,000.

Warden M. L. Spears, who attributed the checking of the fire to the timely arrival of Huntsville fire fighters, conferred with electricians during the morning, attempting to determine whether the fire might have been caused by faulty wiring.

Huntsville, Texas, Jan. 27.—(AP).—Loss estimated at not more than $20,000 was sustained by the Texas penitentiary system when the wagon factory in the "walls," nerve center of the prison organization, was destroyed by fire early this morning. Origin of the fire was ascribed either to a heater left burning throughout the night, or to a short circuited electrical wire, by R. R. Miller, assistant warden.

No prisoners escaped, nor was there any disorder among the convict population, Mr. Miller declared.

AUTHOR OF "FOUR HORSEMEN" PASSED AWAY EARLY TODAY

Mentone, France, Jan. 28. (AP).—Vicente Blasco Ibanez, 61, famous Spanish novelist, died at his villa here at 3:30 o'clock this morning, a political exile. His son, Sigfrido, who hurried here from Valencia, Spain, and arrived at 1 a. m., was the only member of the Ibanez family at the sedside.

Ibanez, who was a diabetic, caugh cold a few days ago. The cold settled in his lungs and bronchial pneumonia developed. Yesterday his condition gradually grew wosre.

Specialists who were summoned gave little hope for the author's recovery. They remained all day at his bedside and at midnight, Ibanez's breathing was less labored. It was feared, however, that because of his critical condition this improvement was only temporary.

Three and a half hours later death won the battle with the writer who had gone into exile for defying a king.

Ibanez returned to Fontana Rosa, his home here, a few weeks ago from Paris. He immediately began to work on plans to make the property surrounding his villa a retreat for the writers of the world wishing to leave it as a "Garden of Novelists."

He had not been in good health, but labored industriously to realize his dream. He talked of little else during the last few days until he was forced to take to bed by illness.

"Four Horseman" Made Him.

Ibanez, who first gained prominence in America through his novel of the war, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," also planned further literary work. One of the books he had in mind was to deal with the crusades and another the mysteries of the inquisition.

Ibanez, after attaining worldwide renown as a novelist, attracted attention as an opponent of King Alfonso and the administration of government in Spain. His caustic attacks against the King led to his conviction for lese majeste but Ibanez kept out of reach of the Spanish government by exiling himself in France.

The purpose of his campaign against the ruler and other government officials, including Primo de Rivera, the military dictator of Spain, the novelist admitted in several of his pamphlets, was to overthrow the monarchy and have set up in Spain a republican form of government.

Bitter Against Spanish King.

"It is not the military directory, but the degenerate Alfonso who is mainly responsible for the troubles in Spain and the Catastrophe in Morocco," Ibanez wrote in one of the early manifestos of his campaign. "Never has history shown a monarch more deceitful and less powerful than the cruel and faithless puppet of the Spanish throne.

"The time has come to put an end to the new era of the inquisition and for the accomplishment Alfonso must go. I will know no rest until the country is free."

Starting his attacks on the King and government late in 1924, Ibanez declared that he would circulate the attacks all over the world.

"I am determined to dethrone the King of Spain and will remain in exile until I have succeeded. I am ready to spend all my wealth to make my once great country a republic and to save it from the monarchs and hypocrites who have brought it to the point of death."

Within a few months after his first attack, it was said Ibanez had spent $15,000 in his campaign.

Would Fight Leaders.

During the controversy many prominent persons took up the cause of King Alfonso and denounced Ibanez. One of these was Benizno Varella, an editor and duelist, who declared that he would slap the face of the novelist in order to force him to fight a duel.

The reply of Ibanez to this was that, although he had fought nine duels, he would pay no attention to this "propagandist," but was ready at any time to fight a duel with King Alfonso or Primo de Rivera.

The wife and children of Ibanez continued to reside at Valencia, Spain, where his wife died, Jan. 21, 1925. The novelist in a statement declared that his wife's sudden death, although she had been in ill-health 12 years, had been due to shock, caused by the King's sequestration of his estate and all his property in Spain.

On July 4, of the same year, Ibanez married at Mentone, France Mme. Dona Elena Ortazar Bulnes, widow of a Chilean diplomat.

MANY KILLED IN BATTLES BETWEEN OPPOSING FACTIONS

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 28. (AP).—Wholesale cleanup of rebels in the bandit infested region of Nayahit, Mexico, into which the Mexican government has thrown thousands of troops, has resulted in several fierce engagements between the insurrectors and federal forces in which many died in the fighting.

Word brought here yesterday by William P. Blocker, American consul at Mazatlan, disclosed that three heavy battles were fought last week. one at Ixtlan, Nayarit, and another at San Diego, small border town on the Durango-Nayarit boundary. In the Ixtlan engagement, Blocker said, 37 rebels and 14 federal soldiers were killed, while many died in the San Diego fighting.

General Zertuche, who commands the federal troops at Acaponeta, led his forces in one other battle against the rebels besides the San Diego engagement.

Troops of General Jovintino Esphiosa, in command of federal troops operating between Acaponeta and Tepic, systematically are combing that region for bandits, Blocker said. and when any are captured no quarter is given.

Hundreds of the bandits, formed in smaller bands, roam the state of Nayarit. Blocker reported.

The federal troops were thrown into the field after the bandits had raided many small towns, inflicting heavy property damage, and preyed on trains running between Nogales and Guadalajara. They dynamited several bridges on the road but these have been repaired and the trains make the through trip.

VICE PRESIDENT'S BROTHER SUMMONED IN OIL LEASE PROBE

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Beman G. Dawes, brother of Vice-President Dawes, heads a new list of witnesses summoned by the Senate Lands Committee in its resumed investigation of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve leasing.

Mr. Dawes, of Columbus, Ohio, is chairman of the board of the Pure Oil Company. The Senate committee desires to know whether his company had any relations with the Continental Trading Company of Canada, the immediate object of the injury. The Canadian concern, now out of existence, was one of the interests of Harry F. Sinclair, who leased Teapot Dome.

The committee will resume sessions on Tuesday and in addition to Mr. Dawes, has summoned Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Mr. Stewart, who was in Havana until yesterday, was expected here early in the week and to make his appearance Tuesday he has cancelled a business trip to Mexico.

Stewart was one of those who guaranteed the Canadian company's contract to purchase oil and re-sell it to other concerns, including his own. What became of the profits of the Canadian corporation is the first concern of the investigation. Testimony has established that $233,000 of the approximately $3,000,000 profits found their way from Sinclair to Albert B. Fall, who signed Sinclair's lease as Secretary of the Interior. The payment was made, it has been testified, in exchange for a third interest in Fall's holdings, being made at the time of the Teapot Dome lease.

An Open Letter to All Users of Old-Style Kerosene Lamps, in Navarro County:

Mr. A. B. Hutson, of Roane, Texas, with whom many of the readers of the "Corsicana Light" are acquainted, and who has been so severely handicapped in his efforts to make something of himself, because he is handicapped with impaired vision, has recently been appointed authorized distributor of the well-known and justly famous, kerosene mantle lamp—the Aladdin. And we who compose the Women's Missionary Union of Roane, take this method of endorsing openly and wholeheartedly this outstanding young man, with whom we all are very well acquainted. And on the strength of this endorsement sincerely hope that those of you who are interested in better light—and each and every one of you should be—will give Mr. Hutson the opportunity to call upon you and give you a demonstration of this wonderful light.

We all are users of the Aladdin and we are glad indeed to from common kerosene (coal oil), easy and simple to operfrom ocmmon ekrosene (coal oil), easy and simple to operate, no pumping, no noise, and best of all, no danger. For your home's good and for the good of your school boys and girls, give the aladdin a careful consideration.

Mr. Hutson's home address is Roane, Texas, and if you will write him there and tell him that you would like to see an Aladdin he will call upon you, place one in your home for a few days so that you can test it and then pay for it if you like it or return it to him without obligating you in the least if you don't.

Should Mr. Hutson call at your home, please treat him with enough courtesy as to let him come into your home and demonstrate this wonderful light to you, because we, as well as Mr. Hutson, are anxious for you to see the Aladdin in operation even if you can't purchase one at this time.

Any courtesy shown Mr. Hutson while he is in your home will be greatly appreciated by us.

Yours for better lighted homes in Navarro County,
(Signed:) WOMAN'S MISSIONARY UNION.

Mrs. T. J. Boon, Mrs. R. E. Bush, Mrs. J. W. Conner, Mrs. Glenn Curry, Miss Letha Curry, Mrs. W. R. Curry, Mrs. A. V. Frazier, Mrs. W. P. Layfield, Mrs. L. E. McCullough, Mrs. S. A. Reagan.

P. S.—The Aladdin is sold on a money-back guarantee. Mr. Hutson wanted the people to feel perfectly safe in buying the Aladdin white light from him, so he got Mr. G. C. Kent, oil producer, to guarantee every light or lamp he sells to this extent—"Your money back if you want it."

The Aladdin costs only a few dollars and at the same time it will light up a room about the same as an electric light or the Delco plant that you would pay $400.00 for.

The swinging lamps are the very thing for lighting up halls, churches, school houses or homes.

If you want to know more about the Aladdin Lamp write Mr. A. B. Hutson, Roane, Texas, requesting him to send you his booklet concerning the Aladdin. He will be glad to furnish a copy free of charge.—W. M. U.

NINETY-FIVE BOOKS UNDER ADOPTION IN STATE OF TEXAS

Austin, Texas, Jan. 27. (AP)—Ninety-five books are now under state adoption for use in the various courses of the public schools, and the number has run as high as 126 since the passage of the free textbook law.

These facts have been reported to the state tax survey commission by State School Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs on request of Former Governor O. B. Colquit, who recently resigned as chairman of the commission. The report covered a summary of adoptions and charges for the 15 year period 1913-1928.

With the adoption in 1913, 45 books were approved for use in public schools, and this adoption remained practically in effect until 1919. In 1919-20 the number increased to 125. Next year there was one book less, but for the year 1921-22, the number increased again to 125. The peak was reached in 1922-23 with 126 books. In 1923-24, the number dropped to 97 and increased again in 1924-25 to 112. For the season, 1925-26, the number dropped down to 89 books. Last summer the number was 109.

Litigation over selection of textbooks began in 1923-24 and has been evident intermittently since then.

AUTHORITY ON BIBLE LANDS TO WRITE FOR SUN

Dr. William T. Ellis, who has penetrated into every part of the Near East mentioned in the Old and New Testaments, will contribute to the Sun, beginning Saturday, January 28, a Weekly Religious Article, based upon the International Sunday School Lesson.

These articles, by the most widely-circulated writer upon religious topics in the world, are a fresh and fearless analysis of the life of today in the light of the Bible. Without controversy or sectarianism, and in the popular style of a trained journalist, Dr. Ellis treats the assigned portions of Scripture as literature for todey. With sincere reverence and sound knowledge, and entirely without flippancy, he interprets the Bible as a Book for human living.

These lessons in the Sun will possess a quality which no similar articles, appearing anywhere else may share—the recent, personal, intimate knowledge of the background of the whole Bible. Dr. Ellis has the unique distinction of being the only man who has ever travelled over the entire geographical area of the Scriptures.

Bible Students of every name and church should know that the Ellis Sunday School Lesson is to be found every week on the Religious Page of the Sun. Readers should relay the news to their friends.

BADLY RUN-DOWN

Kentucky Woman Had "Terrible Time" Doing Her Home Work. Strength Returned After She Took Cardui.

Shelbyville, Ky.—"Several years ago," says Mrs. Alven Jesse, of this place, "my health was very bad. I was very much run-down. I was in such a weak, nervous condition that I was not able to do my housework.

"I struggled to keep up, because I had to, but many a time I spent hours in bed, trying to force enough strength to go through the daily routine.

"This condition went on for some time, until I heard about Cardui which some one told me was good for such ailments. I gave it an immediate trial, and, I am thankful to say, my improvement was rapid. I soon was able to do my housework with ease and comfort. I felt fine and I looked so much better.

"This spring I was not as well as I had been. I was ill in the winter with colds, which left me weak. So I sent at once to the store for Cardui and began taking it. In just a little while I was feeling much better, my strength returned and I was able to get my work done easier and with less effort."

TOM CONNALLY WILL OPPOSE BLANTON IN RACE FOR SENATE

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP).—Representative Tom Connally, Democrat, of Marlin, Texas, will run for the Senate against his colleague, Representative Tom Blanton of Abilene.

A statement issued at Mr. Connally's office today said that he would announce his platform later. The race will be for the seat now held by Earle B. Mayfield, of Austin. Several others already have announced their candidacies.

Regarding the Klan issues in Texas, Connally, a member of the House for ten years and a prominent worker on the Foreign Affairs committee, said he had never been and never expects to be a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

"I am opposed to secrecy in politics or government," his statement added.

Outstanding issues before the American people in the next elections, Mr. Connally described as corruption in the election of senators, excessive campaign funds, efforts of monopolistic interests to control the Senate and its members, taxation, adequate and workable farm relief, law enforcement and transportation. These and other things, the Texas member said, would be discussed by him at a later date.

VEILED CHARGE OF INTIMIDATION MADE BY LABOR DEPT.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 28. (AP).—Friction between the state board of control and the labor department over women's labor law questions arose openly again today.

A statement by R. B. Walthall, board member, yesterday that graduate nurses would protest any legal ruling which held them "laborers" and consequently barred by the statue from working more than nine hours a day, was answered by R. B. Cragg, deputy labor commisioner, in the absence of his chief.

"It is conceivable, of course, he said "that though subtle and indirect methods of intimidation some female employees may be induced to protest the application of this law. In our investigation of labor conditions in state institutions and in private industry we have found women who, though expressing the hope that they might be provided relief and protection from the hardships of long and ardous hours of labor, asked to be excused from appearing as witnesses, the reason assigned in every case being the fear of losing their jobs.

"The fact that many employers do no scruple to hold this threat over women employes renders the work of the department in enforcing the law very difficit. That persons of authority, in either publis or private institutions, find it is expedient to resort to such methods of intimidation constitutes a reflection upon the quality of our citizenship. It is a denial of the "square deal" that is presumed to be guaranteed to every citizen of the state."

Cragg and labor commissioner Charles McKemy aided in the recent prosecution of A. W. Taber, superintendent of the state confederate home here, who was fined $50 in justice court for allegedly allowing women to work more than the prescribed time.

The board has employed additional attendants in order to furnish three shifts, instead of two, at the institutions and believes no violation, unless trained nurses and women physicians come under provisions of the statute, exists.

Meanwhile, Governor Moody has under advisement the board's request for a $45,000 deficiency appropriation to pay salaries of new attendants.

Miss Laura Fortson And Eliot Johnston In Home Wedding

Miss Laura Fortson, atractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Fortson, became the bride of Eliot A. Johnston, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Johnston, Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, at one of the most elaborate and beautiful weddings of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left on the 11:45 for points South on a two weeks' honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Fortson, 220 North Fourteenth street.

Before the impressive marriage ritual was read by Dr. F. P. Culver, pastor of the First Methodist church, Miss Sue Robinson sang "At Dawning," accompanied by Miss Catherine Treadwell, who also played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, and during the ceremony played "I Love You Truly,' softly.

Miss Robinson wore a lovely gown of pink and rose beige Georgette lace trimmed and a corsage of pink rose buds and lavender sweet peas.

Miss Treadwell's gown was also of pink and rose beige Georgette and she wore a shoulder corsage of pink rose buds and lavender sweet peas.

The home was beautiful in elaborate bridal adornment. The entire lower floor of this palatial home was thrown en suite for the occasion, and was transformed into a thing of beauty with Southern smilax, pink columbia roses, carnations and snap dragon, and lighted tapers, the whole effect being that of a bower of green and pink. The stairway down which the bridal party came, was thickly twined with smilax, as were the three tall, Gothic columns separating the reception hall from the music room, where festoons of smilax and containers filled with the chosen flowers added their beauty. In an alcove between the library and dining room, which was completely lined with the smilax, stood two tall seven branch candelabra, entertwined with fern, holding long, pink tapers aglow, and vases attached, filled with pink rose buds and lacy fern. It was here that the beautiful ceremony took place.

As the first notes of the wedding march sounded, the matron of honor, Mrs. Hal Jones, was the first to come down the stairway, and take her place. She wore a lovely frock, a combination of delicate pink and rose beige crepe Elizabeth; and carried a graceful arm boquet of Columbia roses. The maid of honor, Miss Mary Gibson, came next, becomingly over pink crepe with beruffled skirt trimmed in clusters of pink rosebuds, and an arm boquet similar to that of the matron of honor.

The bride entered with her father, and was lovely in a gown of Lucerne blue georgette with real lace bertha and circular flounces, giving an uneven hemline. She carried a beautiful boquet of white Killarney roses and lilies of the valley, showered with white and silver ribbon and valley lilies. She was met at the altar by the groom, attended by his brother, Horace Johnston, as best man.

A reception was held after the ceremony and a wedding breakfast served in the dining room, where the bride's cake was cut. A mound of Columbia roses in a green plaque centered the lace spread table, over which was strewn pink sweet peas and fern fronds. Two tall, pink tapers in crystal holders were placed at each end. On a small table the four-tiered wedding cake, embossed in white, was wreathed with sweet peas and fern.. While the cake was being cut, presided over by Mrs. L. Treadwell, a refreshment course was served the bridal party, out of town relatives, and friends of the family.

Mrs. Johnston traveled in a modish two-piece Georgette, in tones of midnight blue and beige, worn with a close-fitting hat of beige crochet cloth and felt, with rhinestone ornament, shoes and hose in harmonizing tones, and coat of tan kasha with pit fox collar.

Mrs. Johnston was reared in Corsicana, receiving her education here and at Ward-Belmont and S. M. U. She was a Pi Beta Phi pledge.

Mr. Johnston was also reared and educated here, and attended Oklahoma University after graduating from the Corsicana Hi. He was a Kappa Alpha pledge.

Out of town guests for the wedding were Mrs. J. A. McGee, Mrs. J. A. Lackey, Mrs. Claude Hervey, Mrs. Tom Fortson, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heather, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Walker of Rice, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Collins and Miss Dorothy Collins of Ennis, Mrs. John Matthews of Athens, Miss Sophia Brown of Dallas, and Mrs. C. C. Mull of San Antonio.

HUMBLE COMPANY'S ANDERSON COUNTY WELL IS FLOWING

After swabbing 52 barrels of oil through two and a half inch tubing, the Humble Company's Lizzie Smith No. 1 in Anderson county, about two miles southwest of the discovery well began flowing about 4 o'clock Monday morning, and preparations were being made to get a guage on the well.

A liner was set in the well about the middle of last week after a wet gas had been found in the sand at 3712 feet, and the well produced from five to six barrels of oil each time the swab was run. A string of tubing and packer was set Sunday and the swab started again.

The sand in the latest test was found about 130 feet higher than in the Elliott & Clark discovery well in Cherokee county just across the Neches river, but the majority of the difference is credited to differenc in eleevation.

A total of thirteen wells have been drilled on the Boggy Creek dome in Cherokee and Anderson counties, the Humble Company having about 40,000 acres under lease on this structure. Only three of the wells have touched pay. The discovery well, the Elliott & Clark No. 1 came in as a big producer, but turned to salt water; the second well on the same tract offsetting the discovery well has been made a commercial gasser and is supplying fuel for other operations. This well has recently increased its pressure from 1000 to 1300 pounds to the square inch. Five of the wells drilled have been in Anderson county and eight on the east side of the river in Cherokee county.

MUCH INTEREST IS BEING MANIFESTED IN DE ARMON TEST

After penetrating the hard layer at 2296 feet, operators of the DeArman Murphy No. 1, decided to set a string of six and five eights casing to 2280 feet, and work of setting the pipe was started as soon as the casing could be hauled to the test. The setting of casing will probably be completed today. Considerable interest is being manifested in this test, and a number of geologists are keeping close watch.

Coring in the test, which is located between Ward and Love Bridges, was started at 2270 feet where a suitable seat for casing was found, and drillers thought that the top of the Woodbine series was found around 2281 feet.

At 2296, drillers encountered a hard formation, and were attempting Monday to penetrate the strata with a small bit before securing another core. The well is about 12 miles from Corsicana and is being drilled in a section that is practically all under lease by major companies operating in this section.

Chalk in the Alexander & Lyles et al on the Humphreys farm southeast of Angus was topped around 2300 feet and the bit was around 2458 late Sunday evening The well is being drilled by Wheelock & Collins.

The O'Byrne test on the Hamliton farm about two miles east of Tuckertown in the old Powell field is drilling below 1600 according to reports received from the well Monday. Every change of formation is being cored by the operators. This well is a so-called "east side" test.

Several rumors are abroad that activity will be renewed in the Bazette sector soon, but definite information as to locations and operators can not be obtained.

THOMPSON REGIME OBJECT OF ATTACK BY LAWLESS ELEMENT

CHICAGO, Jan. 30. (AP).—Eight persons were under arrest today following raids conducted against what Deputy Commissioner O'Conner has termed the "bomb trust."

A raid on a near-northside hotel where four men were taken, frustrated, police believe, an attempt to bomb the city-owned Lawndale Isolation Hospital. The hospital bombing was planned, said detectives, as another dynamite intimidation of the administration of Mayor Thompson. Homes of two of his closest political associates, City Comptroller Charles Fitzmorris and Dr. William H. Reid, were bombed last week.

The Fitzmorris and Reid bombings, the warning that the Lawndale hospital was to be bombed and the telephone threats of Saturday against the apartment building in which Mayor Thompson lives have been linked together as part of a "bomb trust" plan to intimidate Mayor Thomposn for clamping the lid on gangsters and open gambling.

Walter G. Walker, Assistant State's Attorney, said he believed the hotel raid and the investigation preceding it had supplied sufficient events to warrant the asking of "a score or more" indictments from the grand jury today.

Detective bureau squads with machine guns have been guarding the Lawndale hospital since Saturday when underground channels carried word of the threatened bombing to police. The same underground tipsters gave the information on which police went to room 301 of a hotel on North street and arrested three men and a woman.

Police said they found nitroglycerin, hammers, drills, percussion caps and short lengths of rope in the room, which was occupied by George Rossi, alias Freeman, and Hazel Freeman, his wife. These two, together with Ernest Nietsch and Allen Nonan, were arrested.

Five other arrests were made during the day and night, but all were released under bond.

SUBMARINE MISSING FROM CONTROL FORCE NAVY IS INFORMED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP) The submarine S-3, sister ship on the S-4, has been separated from the submarine control force enroute from Hampton Riads, Va., to Guantanamo, Cuba, and has not been heard from since late Saturday.

The Navy Department was informed today that the S-3 was lost from the rest of the force at Sunset Saturday about 100 miles south of Cape Hatteras and had not communicated with anyone up to 2 o'clock this morning.

The aircraft carrier Saratoga, the tender Camden, and the seven other submarines making up the force en route to Cuba are searching the vicinity.

The ship, commanded by Lieut. P. W. Warren of Springfield, Ill., disappeared from view of the other vessels during a rain squall and a heavy gale. Although some apprehension was felt, it was said at the department that disappearances of this kind are not unusual and generally the vessels later turn up all right.

On board are three officers, four chief petty officers and 33 men. The officers are Lieutenants W. F. Weddner, Charles B. Garvin and Jose M. Cabannilias.

The water where the S-3 is missing is reported to be almost two miles deep.

Officials expressed the belief that she would be found shortly.

The control force left its Hampton Roads base Friday for Guantanamo to participate in winter maneuvers.
